The Rise of Content Curation – or – How To Maintain Your Digital Assets

The internet experience is changing, and with it, our daily lives

You won't want to miss this sneak peek into the future of the Internet and how the fundamental element of "saving" your electronic assets on the Web is affecting the way we behave as communication professionals, consumers and more broadly, as a global population. Gary Flake, founder and CEO of the Seattle startup Clipboard will share insights into today's surging content "curation" space and how many of the new services are giving people a unique way to save, share and organize their interests and aspirations, while also allowing them to get things done.

Bio

Dr. Gary Flake is the CEO of Clipboard Inc., a seed stage Internet startup that allows users to save, organize and share their favorite parts of the web. Prior to founding Clipboard, Gary held executive positions at Microsoft, Yahoo!,

and Overture, where he managed applied research teams, corporate-wide innovation efforts, and helped guide corporate strategy. Gary has appeared in leading national publications including The New York Times, The Washington Post, Time Magazine, Forbes Magazine, Nature Science, CNET News, Computer World, Fast Company, TechCrunch and Mashable.

Sharpen Those Pencils & Be a Judge!

Our chapter is joining forces with PRSA Las Vegas for reciprocal judging of our awards programs. We will be judging the Pinnacle Award entries in the month of October. Judging is a rewarding and enriching experience. You don't have to be an APR to be a judge, but if you are an APR you earn credits toward your APR maintenance requirements. It's a great opportunity to get an inside look at other excellent PR programs! If you are interested in being a judge, please let Karla Slate know: kslate@covingtonwa.gov or give her a call at (253)480-2402.
