Hurry - Important Nomination Deadlines:

Jay Rockey Lifetime Achievement Award

This prestigious award was established in 2002 in honor of Jay Rockey's commitment to the public relations profession. This award recognizes the career achievements of a Puget Sound area public relations professional who has advanced the field of public relations and demonstrated outstanding professional ability and conduct throughout his or her career.

Nominees are nominated by a PRSA Puget Sound Chapter member and submitted in the form of a 300-500 word document outlining the nominee's merits based on the following criteria:

- Experience & Qualifications: Worked as a public relations practitioner or educator for a minimum of 20 years.
- Community Involvement: Specifically advanced the field of public relations in the Puget Sound area.
- Professional Excellence: Has demonstrated outstanding professional ability and conduct throughout his or her career.
- Leadership: Served as a leader in the public relations profession or in public relations education and has advanced the profession.

(Note: One additional letter of support may be submitted as part of the nomination.)

To nominate, complete the Jay Rockey Lifetime Achievement Award nomination form and email to prsa@asi-seattle.net. All nominations must be received by August 25, 2016.

Hugh Smith Community Service Award

Know an outstanding PR professional in the Puget Sound region who gives their time and expertise to important community issues and/or nonprofit causes? Let's recognize their efforts! Nominations are now open for the 2016 Hugh Smith Community Service Award that recognizes an outstanding professional who gives talent and time toward making a difference. Nominees do not have to be members of PRSA. You will find the nomination form here.

This year's recipient will be acknowledged at a luncheon event of their peers at PRSA's Annual Meeting in October.

Please take the time to nominate an individual you find deserving of this honor by filling out the online nomination form. Nominations are due no later than August 25, 2016.

It's time to think Totems!

Think back to the work you've done over the past year. Think about the objectives you've accomplished, the reputation you repaired, or your social media campaign that went viral. Think about difficulties you've had to overcome, the fabulous event you planned, or your press release that got results.

Now think about how amazing it will feel when you are recognized for the innovative and effective work you've done.

Now that we've got you thinking, take a moment to think about what programs or tactics you want to enter into the annual Totem Awards program. Keep an eye out for our Call for Entries in the coming weeks for details and deadlines and don't hesitate to join your peers in seeking recognition and confirmation for your work!

If you think you would like to serve on the Totem Awards committee, please contact Karla Slate, APR at kslate@covingtonwa.gov.

To Succeed in the World of PR, it Takes a PRo

Mid-career public relations professionals know that their success depends on staying relevant, resourceful, and inspired. Recognized worldwide, the Accreditation in Public Relations (APR) integrates timeless communications principles with contemporary strategies and tactics, and distinguishes you as a leader in the field. Invest time now to position yourself for success.

The APR symbolizes distinction and demonstrates an experienced PR professional's mastery of strategic communications and their personal and professional commitment to lifelong learning and ethical standards.

A true offspring of the PR industry, the APR integrates timeless communications principles with contemporary strategies and tactics. You and the rest of the PR community can trust that the APR is an accurate representation of your present expertise and a true test of your potential to lead the field.

The APR:

- Asserts professional competence
- Communicates professional expertise, plus personal and professional dedication and values
- Reflects progressive PR industry practices and high standards

PRSA National launched the "It Takes a PRo" campaign earlier this year to drum up awareness on the APR credential. The campaign consists of a toolkit available online targeting current APRs to help get the word out to PR professionals who ready to next the next step in their careers.

Thinking about pursuing your APR? You can do it! Connect with Kelly Bray, APR Chair, at kelly@teamsoapbox.com. She'll get you on your way.

Get Accredited! Summer APR Workshop

Saturday, August 20, 8-3pm
Phinney Neighborhood Association, Room 32 (brick building)
6532 Phinney Ave N, Seattle

Every summer, PRSA Puget Sound hosts a workshop for individuals who are seriously considering pursuing their Accreditation in Public Relations. The day-long workshop consists of short, interactive presentations by current APRs covering the areas you will be tested on in the Computer Based Examination, as well as tips on how to submit and present a winning Readiness Review.

If you've ever thought about becoming accredited, now is the perfect time to make that dream a reality. By becoming an APR, you can significantly enhance your value as a public relations professional. The APR credential is a mark of distinction for professionals who demonstrate their commitment to the profession and to its ethical practice. Candidates earn accreditation based on broad knowledge, strategic perspective and sound professional judgment. Don't put this off any longer. Commit today by registering for this informative, fun workshop. Your APR is waiting.

Light breakfast and lunch included.

Cost: $50 non-members $40 members

Register online or call the PRSA office at (206) 623-8623

Deadline is 1:00 pm August 19, 2016
